Do I need convexity?

Ostomy pouching systems with convexity are necessary for recessed or flushed stomas. Designed with a special curved feature, convex products apply gentle in-ward pressure to the skin around the stoma to encourage protrusion and accomplish correct placement inside of the pouch. For those needing a better seal to prevent leaking and additional convexity, convex barrier rings are a great option. Convexity can be firm or soft, deep or light. An ostomy nurse in your area can help fit you to the appropriate product to meet your needs and we can deliver the product quickly and discreetly direct to your door. What is a Texas Catheter?

Texas style catheters are constructed of three pieces. The latex sheath is worn over the head and shaft of the penis and feels more like a condom because it is thinner than the silicone external condom catheters. The latex sheath is connected to rigid white silicone tubing, this is where the urine is drained and it is connected to a catheter insert. These three pieces make up the Texas style catheter: sheath, white silicone tubing, and catheter insert. Texas style catheters are made of natural rubber latex and should not be used by anyone with a latex allergy.
